Rockwell Automation's Singapore Operations (APBC) Wins in Manufacturing Company of the Year Category

SINGAPORE – 7 May 2014 – Rockwell Automation, the world's largest company dedicated to industrial automation and information, announced today that its Singapore Operations' Asia Pacific Business Center (APBC) won Silver in the 2014 Asia-Pacific Stevie Awards in the category 'Manufacturing Company of the Year' for all countries outside of South Korea. More than 400 entries from 22 countries across Asia Pacific competed, with a panel of over 100 executives judging the submissions. Rockwell Automation was honoured for APBC's success in its role as Rockwell Automation's global development headquarters for the company's CompactLogix™; SLC™; Distributed Input/Output; Micro Controllers; PanelView™ Component; and Component Drives.

Based in Singapore, the APBC, supported by over 600 research and development, engineering and manufacturing experts, is conveniently located near machine builders in Asia Pacific, a market vital to Rockwell Automation's global growth. As Rockwell Automation established the Rockwell Production System (RPS) to provide the framework for achieving process and production excellence in its manufacturing facilities, the APBC adopted it so its leaders and employees can work together effectively to better serve the company's customers.

"Singapore Operations' (APBC) consistently implements the RPS framework to build the highest quality products and solutions at the lowest cost and with the shortest lead time. The key elements within the RPS charter include: Environment Health and Safety (EHS); Strategic Deployment (SD) and Manufacturing Operating Rhythm (MOR); Built-in Quality; Lean/Productivity; Product Engineering; Supply Chain Management; and People," said Ernest Nicolas, Regional Director, Asia Pacific Manufacturing, Rockwell Automation. "Embracing RPS creates a standardised global approach to production and continuously improves our quality, productivity and manufacturing agility – exceeding our business goals and meeting our customers' evolving needs."

In April, Singapore Operations' APBC also won this year's APICS Corporate Award of Excellence - Asia from the leading professional association for supply chain and operations management. That award was in appreciation of the APBC's achievement in meeting and overcoming the challenges of an ever-changing supply chain and operations landscape.
